In view of the importance of legible handwriting in the public service, candidates are warned that the provisions as to celeration for bad handwriting in these competitions will be strictly enforced.

Candidates are warned that full marks cannot be obtained on any paper unless the whole of it is answered, or, in cases where the number of questions to be answered is specified, unless the full number specified is answered.

Sanskrit Language and Literature.—Translation from Sanskrit; composition in Sanskrit; Sanskrit literature, including the life, thoughts, and achievements of Ancient India, together with such knowledge of history as bears upon the subject; questions on the Sanskrit Language (including questions on Philology).

Composition will be required in Classical Sanskrit alone; elsewhere Telugu Sanskrit is also included.

English Language and Literature.—The examination will be in two parts. In the one candidates will be expected to show a general acquaintance with the course of English Literature, as represented in the chief writers in verse and prose, between the reign of Edward III and the death of Queen Victoria.

A minute and detailed knowledge will not be looked for in this part of the examination; but the aim will be to test how far the candidates have studied at first hand the chief productions of the greatest English writers, and are acquainted with the leading characteristics of their thought and style, and with the place which each of them occupies in the history of English Literature.

The other part of the Examination will relate to one of the following periods, which will follow each other year by year in rotation.

Period I: 1540 to 1603, Chaucer to Spenser.

Period II: 1603 to 1693, The later Elizabethans.

Period III: 1693 to 1744, The age of Dryden and Pope.

Period IV: 1744 to 1800, From the death of Pope to the death of Goethe.

Period V: 1800 to 1832, Nineteenth Century writers to the death of Goethe.

Period VI: 1832 to 1902, From the death of Goethe to the death of Tennyson.

The Examination in this part will require from the candidates a more minute acquaintance with the history of the English Language and Literature, as illustrated in the chief works produced in each period, and will be based to a considerable extent, but by no means exclusively, on certain books specified each year by the Commissioners. The names and other indications placed beside the dates are intended to suggest the general character of the literary development of the period, and, consequently, the general limits of the Examination. All the works of Shakespeare and Milton, for example, will be regarded as falling within the period 1603 to 1693; all the works of Wordsworth and Coleridge within the period 1744 to 1800; all the works of Carlyle, Landor and Macaulay within the period 1832 to 1902.

No scholarships will be awarded on the results of the highest examination in any subject.

The conditions of award are as follows:—

Scholarships will also be awarded to other pupils of promise whose preliminary examinations are certified by the head of the school to be such as to prevent them from presenting their studies without assistance. The names of those students of the community who are poor in need of aid, will, other conditions being satisfied, be first considered.

(4) Candidates who are preparing for a group certificate or a diploma shall have preference over those who are studying single subjects only.

These submitted after the prescribed date will be dealt with separately for that season.

4. Any scholarship awarded in the course of the period for which it is payable will be awarded for the remaining period to an eligible applicant in the same year of study as the holder of the scholarship vacated.

5. The names of selected candidates will be notified by the Director of Industries in the Port St. George Gazette.

6. Heads of institutions may grant leave without deduction or loss of scholarship for a period, not exceeding one month to students who are absent in consequence of illness or absence; but if the leave exceeds this period no allowance is to be granted for the excess period. THE SIDE CHOP OF 1915-18. THIRD OR FINAL REPORT.

(On an average of the five years ending 1918-17, the area under rice in the Madras Presidency has constituted some 16 1/2 per cent of the total area under rice in British India.)

The total irrigated area in the Middle Tennessee Valley in 1919-20 is estimated at 6,311,000 acres, which is less by 1,294,000 acres than the area finally reported for the previous year. In 1917 the area is the largest that has been recorded since complete tabulations were first tabulated in 1905-06. The reasons for the decrease have already been given, in the first and second reports, i. e., the failure of the 1917-18 season, the unusually early start of the 1918-19 season, and the unusually late start of the 1919-20 season. The reason for the last two years is entirely abnormal and it is only in the future, protected by the major irrigation works and on the tract along the East Coast which covered the half of the north-east corner, that anything like a general area has been seen. The falling of the Tennessee River in 1919-20 was a very low one, and the conditions are better in the north, and some of the Tennessee, especially above some streams, is very low.

2. The response of the source has seriously affected yields. The frost in the south was maximum, seriously damaged the crops in most parts of Vengalapur and in the upland parts of Guduvuru and Kuttai, and as delayed, retransplantation in Tanjore had many other factors that the crops were transplanted to plant out very old seedlings or to raise further seedlings and plant out the crops.

from one to two months later than usual. For much of earliest seed of short duration, mature, which would not be produced at short notice, were necessitated to sow the seed long distances westward to late in the year that these seeds matured properly in the hot weather.

On the other hand the season favoured the broadcast sowing in the Gambia and Coastal divisions and the large seed crop on the River Coast which is giving a good yield. Conditions in the extreme south were also favourable to good yields. On the whole, however, the yield will be the smallest that has been obtained for at least ten years, and is estimated at 77,15,000 avt. as against last year's seed average of 150,018,000 avt., a decrease of 55 per cent. Details by districts are given below—
